

Get your ISO9001:2008 project off to a Flying Start

How do we get off the ground with ISO9001:2008?

Are our existing systems and documentation adequate?

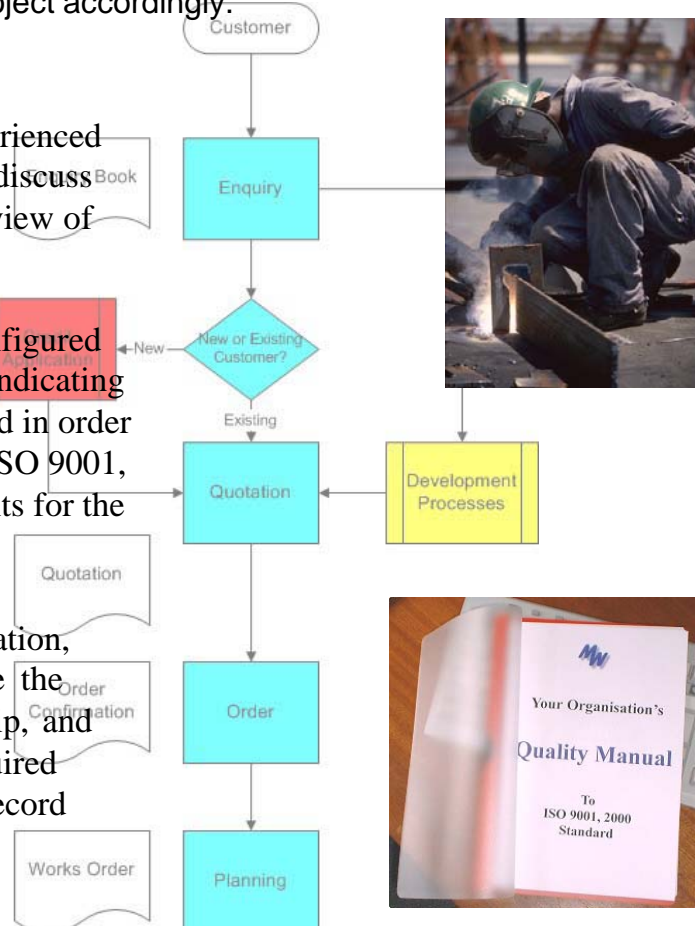

Do we have sufficient resources to manage the task in-house?

For the small business with limited resources the prospect of taking on a project to achieve ISO9001:2008 registration can be extremely daunting.

The Mirams Waterhouse Flying Start Package is designed especially for the small business as a low-cost means of helping organisations to take those essential first steps. It will enable you to see clearly the tasks needed to be done to achieve registration status and to plan your project accordingly.

The Flying Start Package includes:

- A visit to your premises by an experienced quality management consultant to discuss your requirements and get an overview of your operation,
- The essential Quality Manual*, configured specifically for your organisation, indicating all the areas needing to be addressed in order to conform to the requirements of ISO 9001, 2008, and including the requirements for the six compulsory procedures,
- A Process Map* of your organisation, meeting the requirement to define the processes and their interrelationship, and highlighting the existing and required documentation for the essential record keeping.

The Flying Start Package costs from £695.00 plus VAT for small businesses or organisations of less than 20 people, and may be supplemented with additional support and assistance as required, including development of systems and procedures, preparation of documentation, internal audits, etc.

* The quality manual is produced in MS Word and the process maps in MS Visio. The documents can be provided in their original format (editable), PDF format for reading in Acrobat Reader (uneditable) or on paper. Alternatively other formats are possible - please enquire.
